

PROFESSIONAL PROFILE

Neil has specialised in the investigation and handling of liability claims since 1993 and has been loss adjusting in this sector since 1997, previously working for specialist divisions of other loss adjusting practices before joining the company in 2004. Neil has wide ranging experience across all classes of liability claims and has been involved in the investigation and handling of many high-profile incidents including numerous fatalities, as well as disease and other complex injury claims. Neil has particular expertise in dealing with care home fatalities, industrial risks, the firework industry and liability risks in the equine sector.

Neil worked with John on the M5 multi-party fatality, representing a firework display organisation and has investigated both recent UK fatality cases involving zoo-keepers being mauled by tigers.
